DUELLISTS OF WAR TIMES.

First Time Since War.

Richmond. Va., November 4.-Standing in the lobby of a hotel during the visit to Richmond of the Pennsylvanians who attended the unveiling of a monument at Cold Harbor, several days ago, was Captain E. D. Christian, a well known Confederate veteran of the Forty-first Virginia regiment, who was entertaining a number of the visiting Federal veterans with an account of a duel he had in 1862 with a Pennsyl-Cowpens," now the Mechanicsville

"In some way," said Captain Christian, "we were coming through a field place. cut apart by a long line of rail fence. As we approached the fence we saw coming towards us a line of bluecoated soldiers. Before I knew it I was face to face with a Yankee who from this place and after tying the was sending balls at me, but luckily farmer to a tree and whipping him aiming wrong. I loaded my musket on his bare back with willow switchtime and again and we had it there es attempted an assault upon Mrs. face to face. Presently the Yankee mounted the fence to get a better to be passing the Lockhold farm whack at me for I was as bad a shot heard the screams of the woman and as he in the excitement of that duel. Well, gentlemen, down came the rail fence and down came the Yankee, sprawling on the ground. He managed to get up as my old musket ty-four hour hunt, Lewis, one of the banged away, but the ball never touched him.

'Wait a moment," interrupted one rest of the story." All eyes turned instantly killed. toward the military form of Captain W. H. Rauch, a Philadelphian, who was the center of the listeners to Captain Christian's story.

"Well," continued Captain Rauch, at that and you after him. You fired said lynching could not be averted as long as he was in sight and he ran if they were caught alive. as long as his legs would hold him up. The only reason he did not fly was because he was a man and not a

"That's about right," said the Confederate and then the two men faced each other with eyes glued on the faces that had seen the changes of nearly half a century.

"Hell, man," Captain Rauch cried, finally breaking the intense stillness, "are you the Johnny Reb that had that duel with me and came near making me a prisoner or putting me out for good?"

"If you are the man who jumped on that fence and fell, and then got up and ran while a Confederate soldier sent bullets after you to help move, I guess we have met before.

Chinese Enter College.

San Francisco, Nov. 7 .- Fortyseven Chinese youths arrived from the Orient yesterday on the steamer to enter the various colleges in this country for technical education at the expense of the Chinese government. They will be followed next year by 153 students and the entire 200 will return home when their courses are completed, and give China the advantage of their American training.

The Chinese government decided to educate many of its young men in the United States when the government remitted the indemnity claim of $10,000,000 growing out of the Boxer troubles in China.

The 47 students arriving to-day are in charge of Fong Wwoh On of of Yale, class of '84. They will be presented to President Taft.
